

RxEOB Works with RxLess™ to Reduce Prescription Drug Costs

RxWallet® allows users to have their electronic prescription information sent directly to their phone, enabling them to shop for the best price.

RxEOB.com, a transformational health information technology company, is integrating RxLess discounts into its RxWallet® mobile application. Introducing price transparency to e-prescribing turns users into proactive shoppers before they arrive at the pharmacy. With the RxWallet application, users will have access to pricing options right in the palm of their hand.

RxEOB believes everyone should have a simple and reliable way to access affordable prescriptions. Consumers deserve information that empowers them to make informed choices about the price and delivery of their medicine. To assist consumers, RxEOB has released the RxWallet e-prescription shopper application through the Apple and Google Play app stores.

RxWallet is an application that provides patients with pre-adjudication access to their electronic prescriptions, allowing them to:

- Easily compare drug therapy options
- Determine which pharmacy is best for them to use
- Identify and understand their payment options, including:
 - o The RxLess Discount Program
 - o Insurance
 - o Manufacturer discount programs

Like RxEOB, the RxLess Marketplace is a leader in helping patients and their families easily shop for the medications they need while getting discounts delivered more conveniently than ever. “It is a pleasure to work with RxLess because of their commitment to empowering patients with transparency and simplicity. The collaboration between RxEOB and RxLess is a big help for patients,” said Robert Oscar, CEO and Founder of RxEOB.
